

International Law Links

International Law is an area of practice that many students find enticing. Usually international corporations hire individuals who have worked for them, perhaps in a law firm, or who have some practice experience to offer. International law firms who are looking for lawyers to fill their offices abroad are interested in ties to the country or area, language ability, and some unique experiences. Consider establishing these skills as you go through law school if you are looking for an international job. Be sure to check out the ABA approved Study Abroad program list under “Resources” on this website for some intriguing ways to spend a few weeks gaining experiences and knowledge.
